The Context:

According to recent survey, the majority of engineering graduates remain unemployed despite of possessing good knowledge.

The essence of survey is that, there is a huge gap between acquisition of knowledge and application of knowledge. The application of knowledge requires skill and attitude which are unfortunately low among engineering graduates. In other words, today's engineering graduates are more knowledgeable and less skilful. Hence, there is a need to train the students in employability and lifelong learning.

The Practice:

The target beneficiaries are identified from B. Pharm program and the trained faculty are allotted to them in Life Skills. The list of skills and suitable activities are designed to help the students.
